this document will be completed and sent to all national federations.

Mr. Guskov pointed out, that number of participating countries and that of athletes raised. For instance, at the championship, which will start tomorrow, there 355 athletes from 27 countries will take part.

It's good that Saudi Arabia, Singapore, and number of some other countries started to attend.

But still, we have to study out, why the other Asian countries do not take part, as at the Asian Games all countries have sent their teams. It means, wrestlers have licenses, but did not take part at the continental championships. What accounts for that - there is no budget? Or it's a week work of the federations?

Mr. Dimash Sultanov from UWW-Asia staff reported shortly on the events, held by UWW, UWW-Asia and national federations of Asia. He informed that 7 events were held by UWW and Olympic solidarity. These events were staged at the highest level and had good impact for wrestling development.

It would be possible to stage Asian championships in Olympic wrestling styles and also in some of traditional wrestling styles (beach wrestling, grappling, and others) at the same period. It will be easiest way to develop traditional styles.

It is claimed the high-performance centre will host several activities in the future, including UWW advanced training camps. Educational programmes for coaches and referees are also expected to take place at the venue.

Mr. Lalovic thanks Mr. Zhang Xia for her support to UWW-Asia in staging this General Assembly meeting.

He mentions, that meets many new young faces among those who takes part at the activity of UWW-Asia and this fact gives us confidence, that this continent in strong hands. Asia consists of 60 % of the world population. It means, that Asia consists of 60 % of the world's sports.

President Nenad Lalovic of United World Wrestling delivered a detailed speech on the various projects planned for the future of UWW. In his speech, President Lalovic emphasized the importance implementing change and development in various aspects of UWW whether it be development, governance, or technology.

From WADA to ITA- Medical and antidoping are big issues. We need to have healthy athletes. And support must be given to our work with doping. The most immediate changes to UWW is the instalment of the International Testing Agency (ITA) as the official anti-doping agency of UWW. UWW signed a contract with

UNITED WORLD WRESTLING ASIA

ITA to oversee and manage the sport's anti-doping program. Wrestling joins a growing list of International Federations who've signed with ITA in the past few months. ITA will be in charge of wrestling's entire anti-doping program, which includes in-competition and out-of-competition testing, results management including decision for positive tests, therapeutic use exemptions, and athlete education. United World Wrestling will remain responsible for being compliant to the WADA code.

Despite tremendous strides made by UWW to promote anti-doping, wrestling and wrestlers still use controlled and banned substances. UWW's goal, according to President Lalovic, is not to reduce the number of substance abusers, but to eradicate doping entirely from the sport of wrestling. Like WADA, ITA is an independent organization what will monitor and implement doping test for all athletes associated with UWW. However, unlike WADA which only conducts the test, ITA will implement impartial and fair judgement to individuals who are found doping.

Next goal, said Mr. Lalovic – is transparency in sports – decisions, finances, etc. We all must take responsibility for our decisions.

About development – most of you noticed that number of courses and clinics for referees considerably increased. But still, this is not enough to improve their level, and UWW will undertake further actions to facilitate this goal.

United World Wrestling operates several High-Performance training centres around the world. These centres provide training for athletes year-round and have the task of developing international wrestling talent to its full potential. And one of these centres located now in Beijing – training centre of the National Olympic Committee of China, which will be the venue to train top athletes.

About technical assistance – will be report delivered by Ms. Lei Liang from UWW Development Department and all delegates will hear what UWW does in this filed.

We had a great success of our champions in Budapest. And hopefully great event will be seen in Nur-Sultan (Kazakhstan), during the upcoming World Championship this year. Mr. Lalovic appeals to all federations attended to send their wrestlers to the training camp before the World Championship in Nur-Sultan, which will be held mainly for the athletes from developing countries, and UWW is going to cover expenses for travel, accommodation and meal.

Media Exposure- President Lalovic expressed the importance of gaining media exposure to increase the viewership and popularity of wrestling on a global scale. To this extent, President Lalovic announced that UWW has partnered with the National Broadcasting Company (NBC) to promote wrestling in the Americas and abroad.

UNITED WORLD WRESTLING ASIA

One of the most anticipated styles of wrestling promoted by UWW is Beach Wrestling and for the last few years, UWW has heavily promoted Beach Wrestling around the world and expectations are high that Beach Wrestling will promote wrestling to a broader global audience and draw more potential athletes to wrestling in years to come.

According to President Lalovic, technology will also play a key role in promoting wrestling especially in the realm of data collection and analysis. President Lalovic stressed that sponsors and promoters are interested in viewership numbers as this is the most basic and accurate means to determine a sports popularity to the masses and often more viewers would lead to greater promotions and sponsorships for wrestling. President Lalovic asked the national federations in attendance to vigilantly maintain each federation's respect databases and actively search for new and innovative ways to garner media attention to wrestling.

Structural Changes - President Lalovic stressed the importance of maintaining innovation and change for UWW as stagnation of any organization can lead to its demise. As such, the President briefly expressed an interest in imposing age restrictions and terms limits for members of UWW.

Technological Changes - New technological advancements will be implemented in UWW to promote efficiency, fair play and transparency. One of the key technologies that will be implemented in the future will be blockchain technology for the drawing systems. Another potential technological change might be the use of headsets and microphones for all referees and mat chairmen so that challenges and discussion between referees can be observed by the audience. This will mostly noticeably increase the overall transparency of the referring process, but the addition of the microphones will also give the audience an in-depth look into the mindset of the referees during the actual matches as to reduce and distinguish human error from intentional errors.

Item 9. United World Wrestling Development programs (Development Department UWW)

After the break Ms. Lei Liang gave report about the work of UWW Development department. She informed audience on the structure of the Department and commissions under supervision of this Department.

Development department works closely with the Referees commission on the training programmes. Ms. Liang informed about the coaches and referees courses held by the Department last year. Programme was successful and same programme is going to be implemented for current year.
