

UWW Regional Educational Development Programme 2025-2026

---

Concept:

Following the success of the REDP programme, the UWW Technical Assistance & Development Commission is renewing its regional educational development initiative for 2025-2026.

This programme has successfully introduced wrestling to developing nations across Central America, East and South Africa, Southeast Asia, and Oceania. With the support of Olympic Solidarity facilitated through hosting National Olympic Committees and National Federations the initiative exceeded expectations in its outreach and impact.

The programme originated from numerous requests by developing wrestling nations. Given its success, it has been extended through 2026, with a particular focus on preparing for the Youth Olympic Games Dakar 2026 and promoting the development of beach wrestling.

Launched after an in-depth study of wrestling development in these regions, the initiative aims to provide targeted support to existing and emerging regional tournaments and competitions while integrating educational programmes. Competition formats will be tailored to meet the specific needs of these developing wrestling communities.

These tournaments and competitions will not only feature educational and training programmes but also include organizational support, thereby strengthening the sport while enhancing UWW's global presence. National Federations facing economic challenges, limited wrestling education, or a wrestling culture primarily rooted in traditional styles have greatly benefited from this initiative.

Overall, the programme has contributed to increasing wrestling opportunities, expanding the number of competitions, and equipping National Federations with essential educational courses. It also provides guidance on organizing all-styles competitions, including beach wrestling.

The organization and participation in these events fall under the patronage of UWW's National Federations. Event organizers are responsible for submitting the required documentation and ensuring optimal conditions for hosting the competition.

While the regional educational development programme may include all age categories or focus on a specific one, UWW will cover the cost of licenses for the duration of the competition, according to the designated categories per region (detailed below).
